

FROM THE PRINCIPAL ...

National Education Union (NEU) Industrial Action

The NEU has announced that its members in England have voted overwhelmingly in favour of strike action in support of an increased pay award for teachers and more funding for schools. The NEU is calling the first day of strike action on Wednesday 1 February and we expect that a number of College staff will participate. This action is not against Collingwood itself but is part of national industrial action.

The Department for Education expects headteachers to take 'all reasonable steps' to keep the school open for as many pupils as possible and I will, of course, comply with this as long as I can ensure it is safe to do so. As there is no requirement on unions to inform me in advance of which members of staff will take action on this day, it is very difficult to accurately predict how many staff will be in College. We do have a considerable number of NEU members so I anticipate that there will be significant disruption to the normal running of the College.

Over the coming days we will be completing a risk assessment to evaluate the impact that the industrial action will have on the College. Following the risk assessment we will decide what steps we might need to take to ensure continuity of learning for as many of our students as possible, whilst also ensuring that staff and students are not exposed to risks to their health and safety.

If we do have to resort to remote learning for some year groups, then we will obviously prioritise those year groups who have external examinations this year to be on site, following their normal timetables, although with the provision that some lessons will not be with their normal teacher. We will also ensure that provision is made for our vulnerable students and children of critical workers, as we did during the COVID pandemic lockdown.

Once we have completed our risk assessment, I will notify all parents and carers of our plans.

FORCES EMPLOYMENT CHARITY CV WORKSHOP

As part of our work with forces families, we invited Kelly Wales from the Forces Employment Charity to come into Collingwood on Thursday 12 January to work with some of our students on building and designing their own CV.

Students from a range of year groups, whose families are either based in the Armed forces or were once based in the Armed forces attended. They had the opportunity to discuss a range of careers and to see example CV's as well as beginning to put their own CV together. Many of these students have subsequently decided to have a careers interview with Kelly Wales on a later date.

If you would like to know more about this charity, please do visit the link below or speak to Mrs Everson:

ATTENDANCE - LEAVE OF ABSENCE/

Just to remind parents/carers that if they take their children out of school without authority, they will be liable to receive a penalty notice. Currently the amount payable under a penalty notice is £60.00 per parent/carer per child if paid within 21 days. Thereafter the amount increases to £120.00 if paid between 21 and 28 days. If the penalty notice remains unpaid after 28 days, the Local Authority will consider a prosecution in the Magistrates Court. Please note that penalty notices are issued per parent/carer per child so a family of two parents and two children will receive 4 penalty notices.

Spotlight on Reading at Collingwood

In the December edition of my Spotlight on Reading articles I spoke about the ways in which you could help your child pick some texts to read. I hope that over the Christmas break you got to sit and do some reading together as we suggested. As we know, Reading is very good for our mental health and it can help us to escape the hubbub of daily life!

In this edition, I want to focus on how you can talk to your child about the book they have been reading to develop their thinking around the text. These prompts might help:

Questions to ask whilst reading with your child

You could use the prompts below to help you start a discussion about an extract or whole text. You could read the text with your child (either one of you reading, or taking it in turns) or you could read the text independently from each other and use these prompts to start a discussion afterwards.

Before you Read

Predict

Make predictions before you read something together. This could be based on what will happen next in a story, what an article could be about based on the headline or what clues the book cover can give about the narrative.

- ✓ What do you think the cover suggests about the story?
- ✓ What do you think will happen next in the story?
- ✓ What does the headline suggest the article might be about?
- ✓ What do you think you will learn/find out?

Discuss relevant knowledge and experiences

Discussing any knowledge or experience they have about a topic may help them to understand a text better or to make connections. For example, if you are reading a text about dinosaurs, you could ask what they can recall about dinosaurs, it can even be about Jurassic Park!

- ✓ What do you already know about...?
- ✓ Do you remember the time we read/watched/visited...?

During or after your reading

Check understanding regularly

As you read, you will come across words and information they may not fully understand. Make sure you pause and check your child's understanding, thoughts or ideas about something they've read regularly to ensure that they definitely understand what they are reading.

- ✓ What do you think... means?
- ✓ If neither of us know what it means, how could we find out?
- ✓ What do you think the writer is suggesting here?
- ✓ Which pieces of information do you think are most important and why?
- ✓ Is the writer saying ... or ...? Why do you think that?

Spotlight on Reading at Collingwood

Ask questions to think more deeply

Discuss why the writer has chosen to represent characters, events, settings in a certain way - don't worry if you do not have all the answers! The important thing is to have a discussion with your child and encourage them to think about what they've read more deeply. Praise your child and encourage their discussion, ideas and thinking.

'I wonder.....' questions can work well here as they leave discussion more open.

- ✓ I find your thinking behind that idea really interesting. Why do you think that?
- ✓ I wonder why the writer has chosen to use the word...? What does it make you think of/feel?
- ✓ Why do you think the writer presented the character/setting like this?
- ✓ What is the purpose of the article/speech? How can you tell?
- ✓ Why might ... be important?
- ✓ How are ...and ... alike/different?

Summarising ideas and information

The most important step of all, summarising the ideas and information they have read, provides an opportunity to check for any misunderstandings your child may have and to consolidate their learning. Try to summarise at appropriate points throughout the text. Don't wait until the end of the text or the chapter when they may have forgotten something.

- ✓ What are the three most important pieces of information in the text?
- ✓ What is the most interesting thing you have learnt and why?
- ✓ Which five words are key to the text and why?
- ✓ Is the tone/topic the same at the beginning and the end?
- ✓ What have you learnt?
- ✓ Were your predictions accurate? Why/why not?

Remember to restart the sequence for the next section of text.

"When we read, we can be inspired to want to build a better world and a brighter future. So keep reading and change the world."

At the weekend we received news that our flag had made it all the way to Antarctica and was displayed by Martin Steel at Halley Research Station in Antarctica.

DEBATING NEWS ...

On Saturday 14 January, Collingwood entered three debating teams in the International Competition for Young Debaters. We debated in four rounds throughout the day and came up against very stiff competition from some of the top schools in London and the South East.

I am very pleased to report that Bethan Wood and Jay Harindranath (Year 9) have progressed to the international finals to be held in Cambridge later this Spring. They will debate against the top schools in the world.

On Monday 16 January, our senior team went head-to-head against Wellington College in the second round of the Schools Mace Competition. We proposed the motion to ban trial by jury and successfully beat Wellington in a hard fought debate.

Congratulations to Chloe Burrows (Year 11) and Bethan Wood (Year 9) who have been selected for the England Senior Development Debating Squad. They will join top students from around the country to train for the England Team.

The girls are following in the footsteps of Ellie Bean (Year 13) who will be representing England this summer in the World Schools Debating Competition in Vietnam.

Congratulations to all our debaters!

The overall winner is Chloe Burrows from Year 11 who has won a voucher for her story, "The Naughty Gingerbread Man". The runner up is Ella Ewington from Year 9 who won a voucher for her story, "How to Wake Santa up on Christmas Eve?"

All the rest of the entries won a chocolate prize, please pop in and pick up your prize.

Again, well done and keep an eye out for the next writing competition.

Whispering Wednesdays

Remember it is Whispering Wednesdays. Students will be able to read, draw or complete homework whilst enjoying the quietness. Computer games and board games will not be available on Wednesdays.

The Library still needs your help

19 of our "Dr Who" books have gone missing from the library without being checked out which is very unusual.

If you do notice that your son or daughter has one of these books, please ask them to bring them to the library in order for us to check them out properly onto their library cards.

It is a very old collection; it has been used by 2 generations of students and is still a popular choice nowadays.

Can you please encourage your son/daughter to return any overdue library books/DVDs as soon as possible to avoid possible behaviour points. If you have any issues, please email: s.blay@collingwood.surrey.sch.uk
